CONGRESS IS AT LOGGERHEADS WITH ITSELF

CONCERNS VIRTUALLY EVERY IMPORTANT ISSUE OF LEG-ISLATION

FLOOD CONTROL, FARM RELIEF, TAX REDUCTION, TAX RE-VISION, ETC.

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Congress is at loggerheads with itself or with President Coolidge over virtually every important issue of legislation advanced this session, and evidences of worry at this condition are manifest today at the capital and the White House.

Flood control, farm relief, tax reduction, tariff revision, the merchant marine policy, naval construction, investigation of the S-4 sinking—all are wedged in a tightening legislative deadlock with the session nearly two months old.

The Democratic-Independent Republican coalition is in the saddle in the senate and riding roughshod over republican plans. The house is at odds with the senate over tariff and tax legislation and the President's proposed S-4 inquiry. Mr. Coolidge's suggested farm compromise and naval program face serious objections in both houses. Republicans say they expect him to veto the Jones shipping bill in the form in which the senate is proceeding to adopt it. Both houses are resisting Mr. Coolidge's proposal that Mississippi Valley states pay 20 percent of flood control costs.

These issues comprise practically all the important national legislation before congress. No important measure has passed either house and none is in shape for final action.

51 LIVES LOST IN CONFLICTS BETWEEN FEDERALS AND REBELS

Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Conflicts between federal troops and rebels in the state of Nayarit, Mex., which cost the lives of 51 men, were reported by William Blocker, American consul at Mazatlan, Mex., on arrival here.

The major engagements took place last week, Blocker said. Federal troops were victorious.

Blocker also said that loss of life was reported heavy in fighting on the borders of the states of Nayarit and Durango, when federals and rebels met.

BEREFT OF MEMORY, SEA CAPTAIN KILLS SELF AT PORTLAND

Portland, Ore., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Unable to recall anything of his past life, a man who attempted suicide here Wednesday was identified today as W. Dixon Hopcraft, commander of the Empress of Australia, second largest passenger vessel in the world.

Identification was by Canadian Pacific railroad officials.

Leaps to Death From Washington Monument

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 28.—(UP)—An unidentified man today paid 15 of his last 16 cents to enter the Washington monument, and after climbing to the top, leaped to his death.

The body, clad in a thin gray summer suit, with no vest, was found in deep snow at the base. The pockets contained only a box of matches and one penny. The man used some of the matches to warm his hands before jumping.

HERB JOESTING TO BOOM OUR 10,000 LAKES

St. Paul, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Herb Joesting, captain of the Minnesota university football team and all-American fullback for 1927, will continue to "hit the line" for Minnesota although his days of collegiate football are over.

He has been selected by the directors as field representative of the Ten Thousand Lakes association. It was announced today by Roy E. Dunn of Pelican Rapids, president of the association.

20 PEOPLE KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK NEAR RANGOON

Rangoon, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Twenty people were killed and 29 injured today when a train, enroute from Rangoon to Mandalay, was derailed and fell into a creek.

The wreck was about 100 miles from Rangoon.

Several fish-plates—connecting bars between rails—had been removed from the track, indicating the wreck had been planned. Authorities started an immediate investigation.

WINTER TAKES FRESH HOLD IN THE EAST

PROSPECT FOR SNOW BEFORE
NIGHTFALL IN SECTIONS OF GREAT LAKES REGION

Washington, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Winter took a fresh hold on parts of the east today after mild temperatures had been fairly general.

The prospect was for snow before nightfall in portions of the Great Lakes region, the Northern Appalachian region, the Northern Portion of the Middle Atlantic States and Southern New England. Northern New England will have snow to-night or tomorrow, the weather bureau said.

Washington awoke to find itself blanketed with several inches of snow, with more falling.

Washington, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Winter temperatures and heavy snow gripped a large section of the east and south today.

A storm beginning soon after midnight, blanketed this city with nine inches of snow, and the weather man predicted it would be a foot by noon, when the fall was scheduled to end.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(UP)—The midwest was struck by another cold wave overnight, Chicago and suburbs suffering from some of the lowest temperatures recorded this winter.

Thermometers in the suburbs registered as low as nine below zero and a high wind added to the chill. Coast guard stations reported temperatures variously from one below to six below.

The cold wave was general over the area. There was little prospect for immediate relief.

ALLEGED ENTICING GIRL TO UNDERGO ILLEGAL OPERATION

Minot, N. D., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Jewel Christianson, 21, is under arrest here while authorities probed the death of Miss Marguerite Nelson, 20, a school teacher, who died following an alleged illegal operation. Christianson is alleged to have enticed the girl, a former school teacher, to undergo the operation, authorities said.

EXAMINATIONS FOR DRY SLEUTHS

Washington, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran announced today that new, modified examinations for dry sleuths probably would be ordered for every district in the country.

"Eligibles from the first and second examinations will be bunched and the prohibition bureau will be able to select the best fitted men," Dr. Doran said. "This means the majority of the 1,500 agents who failed in the first test will be retained."

He said the civil service commission has already ordered four new examinations for executive positions in the prohibition bureau.

Los Angeles, Jan. 28.—Impatient to "get it over with," Edward Hickman paced his cell today while attorneys prepared for another battle, expected when his trial resumes Monday.

The fight was to center around the state's right to challenge a jury, which the defense contends has already been accepted by both sides.

The defense precipitated the battle at the close of Friday's session by unexpectedly accepting a full jury, after Judge Trabucco had allowed the state the privilege to challenge.

The defense had expended its sixteenth peremptory challenge and filled the vacant jury chair. Jerome Walsh, Hickman's counsel, then passed the juror and the judge tendered him to the prosecution. The prosecution, throughout the jury questioning, appeared content to remove only jurors who were under middle age.

Shooting Husbands in St. Paul Considered to Be Serious Offense

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Shooting husbands in St. Paul is to be considered a serious offense despite the fact that in other cities of the United States a wife behind a gun is considered in a light vein.

At least this is the opinion of Judge Hugo O. Hanft who decreed that Mrs. Mabel Hawkins, 27, must stand trial for the shooting of her husband at their home November 17.

"The court cannot consider lightly cases in which women shoot their husbands," Judge Hanft said in making it clear that he would not entertain a motion to dismiss the case even though the husband, who for several weeks lay near death, was in a forgiving mood.

Trial for the young wife will open Feb. 6.

STORY OF WINONA, OF SIOUX LEGEND, HEARD BY 10,000

Minneapolis, Jan. 28.—(UP)—For the first time in 26 years, the David Bishman memorial medal was presented outside of Chicago when it was conferred last night upon Alberto Bimboni, composer of the Indian opera, Winona.

The medal is given for distinguished work in the composition of purely American operas and is named for David Bishman, civil war veteran, first person to suggest American operas and to think English a singable language.

Before nearly 10,000 persons, the story of Winona, Indian maiden who loved and died in the legend of the Sioux, was unfolded in music at the Minneapolis auditorium last night.

ST. PAUL'S FIGHT AGAINST MERGER LED BY MAYOR

HEARING REOPENED MONDAY
AT ST. PAUL BEFORE
I. C. C.

RAILROAD & WAREHOUSE COM-MISSION, INTERVENING, HAS TAKEN NO STAND

St. Paul, Jan. 28.—(UP)—St. Paul's fight against the merger of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads will be led by Mayor Hodgson when the hearing is reopened here Monday before the interstate commerce commission.

It is probable the mayor will be the only witness called by the city.

The railroad and warehouse commission, although it has intervened has taken no stand on the issue. It is now preparing a statement which will be offered to the commerce commission.

According to information received from Portland, Ore., the Oregon public service commission will not change its stand taken in favor of the proposed unification, declaring that a strong unified railroad system presents greater possibilities for industrial development of the north-west than the present arrangement.

The Oregon commission contended that the merger eventually will mean increased payrolls with industrial expansion which in its opinion would follow the merger.

Everyone rushed upon the flyer. They shouted. They cheered when he smiled upon them.

The "Queen" of the students, selected especially for the occasion, was escorted to the flyer and kissed him on the cheek. He grinned boyishly at this demonstration of friendship.

Then he was escorted into Bogota. It was a sight unprecedented in Bogota's history. Along the entire course of the trip there were cheering thousands. The crowds threw flowers over Lindbergh's motor car and kept shouting a welcome.

A cavalry troop and several score motor cars served as a guard of honor for the American.

He was taken to the American legation and when he appeared in the early evening on the balcony there was a repetition of the joyous welcome. One great sign hung out over the street and on it was printed "Bienvenido Lindbergh."

"Welcome Lindbergh." Huge lights played on the house where Lindbergh stayed.

He was guest of honor at a tea and later at a dance last night.

Bogota, Jan. 28.—(UP)—In the midst of the royal honors being paid him by Colombia, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today was looking forward to his next flight on his good-will tour which he plans to end at the Havana Pan-American conference February 8.

Lindbergh told the United Press he would leave here Sunday, intending to fly in a direct line to Caracas, Venezuela. He expected to leave in the morning and arrive at the Venezuelan capital in the afternoon.

From Caracas, Lindbergh's itinerary was to be at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, January 31; Porto Rico, February 2; Santo Domingo, February 4; Haiti, February 6 and Havana, February 8.

FRENZIED EXCITEMENT GRIP-
PED COLOMBIANS WHEN
HE ARRIVED

LONE EAGLE EXPERIENCED
SOME DIFFICULTY LOCAT-
ING LANDING FIELD

Bogota, Colombia, Jan. 28.—(UP)—The spontaneous and warm cordiality of the Latin peoples today was bestowed upon Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the American good will flyer, who flew here from Cartagena over a dangerous airpath that had been conquered only once before.

It was one of Bogota's greatest occasions and the Colombian capital made good use of it.

From the moment that a tiny speck appeared in the skies over the city—the speck that eventually turned out to be the Spirit of St. Louis—a frenzied excitement gripped the Colombian citizens. More than 100,000 had gathered at the Madrid field—about 20 miles out of the city—or lined the roadway which Lindbergh must use to go into Bogota.

He landed at Madrid field at 3 p. m., just as he had announced he would do. His course had taken him over jagged mountain peaks and at times the Spirit of St. Louis had to descend to an altitude of 8,600 feet in order to clear the mountains.

Lindbergh had difficulty in locating the landing field. He circled Bogota several times, soared over Mount Monserrat, flew low over several suburbs and then was greeted in the air by the Colombian aviator, Daza.

He was escorted to Madrid field, made a perfect landing, and then was almost crushed in the vigorous enthusiasm of the Colombians.

Everyone rushed upon the flyer. They shouted. They cheered when he smiled upon them.

The "Queen" of the students, selected especially for the occasion, was escorted to the flyer and kissed him on the cheek. He grinned boyishly at this demonstration of friendship.

A. F. PRATT

Attorney General of Minnesota, who died at his home in Anoka today.

BLASCO IBANEZ, GREAT WRITER, PASSED AWAY

AUTHOR BEST KNOWN FOR THE
"FOUR HORSES OF THE APOCALYPSE"

WAS SUFFERING FROM BRON-
CHIAL PNEUMONIA, DIA-
BETES, PLEURISY

Paris, France, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Blasco Ibanez, author who was best known for the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" died at his home on the French Riviera at 3 a. m. today, according to advices from Mentone.

He was suffering from bronchial pneumonia, diabetes and pleurisy.

The Spanish author, who was in voluntary exile because of the differences of his political views from those of the ruling powers of Spain, had been ill for several days.

Yesterday his condition became worse and his two sons and a daughter were summoned.

One son was reported flying to his father's bedside.

It was Ibanez's political movements that brought about the voluntary exile.

He wrote the pamphlet "Alfonso XII Unmasked"—a charge that the king had betrayed France by giving secret information to Germany during the war and also a charge that the king was responsible for military disaster in Morocco—and had them distributed throughout the world.

All his life he had delved into politics and many times was arrested and convicted to serve at hard labor for his political penings. Once he went into voluntary exile in Argentina and lived there for many years.

He finally took refuge in his own villa on the French Riviera and continued attacks on the Spanish throne from there.

In addition to the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" Ibanez's best known writings were "Blood and Sand," "Mare Nostrum," and "The Temptress."

His greatest fame came from the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypses." His appeal was striking throughout the world, particularly in the English speaking countries. It was made into a motion pictures which was a pronounced success.

Ibanez was born at Valencia, Spain, January 29, 1867. He was married twice. His first wife died in 1925 and he remarried the same year.

The Spanish author twice visited the United States, the last time in 1923 when he gave many lectures throughout the country.

Geneva, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Blasco Ibanez's unexpected death deprived the world of what he had planned to be his masterpiece and one that he had hoped would herald the dawn of perpetual world peace, League of Nations officials revealed today.

It was to be a novel, called "The Fifth Horseman of the Apocalypse," and the horseman was to be universal brotherhood.

SEIZED WITH ATTACK DURING LAST NIGHT

DEATH CAME AT 4:45 A. M. AT
HIS ANOKA HOME AT AGE
OF 55 YEARS

HAD BEEN APPOINTED TO OF-FICE JANUARY 1, SUC-CEEDING HILTON

Anoka, Minn., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Attorney General F. Pratt died at his home here this morning. He was 55 years old. He succumbed as he prepared to leave his home for his offices in St. Paul.

The cause of death was not determined. The county coroner was called but made no official announcement.

Pratt suffered a short spell of dizziness at his office here yesterday, and again after he returned to his home he became ill, but recovered before he retired.

Shortly after 4 o'clock this morning he was again stricken, but the attack apparently passed over without ill results. When the attorney general arose shortly before 6 o'clock he was stricken again, and succumbed.

Pratt was born in 1872.

Anoka, Minn., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Col. A. F. Pratt, recently appointed State Attorney General died suddenly today at his home here.

Death came at 4:45 a. m.

Col. Pratt had complained of a "dizzy spell" at his office Friday but thought nothing more of it when it passed over without any apparent ill effects. He was seized with an attack during the night, and died a short time later.

Dr. A. T. Caine, who attended him, said his death was due to hardening of the arteries about the heart.

Col. Pratt was appointed attorney general Jan. 1 this year to succeed Clifford L. Hilton, who was appointed Associate Judge of the Supreme Court. Hilton succeeded Justice Quinn of Fairmont, resigned.

The widow, three sons and a daughter survive Col. Pratt.

Col. Pratt, as he had been familiarly known for years was at his office in St. Paul Friday, apparently in the best of health. Following his sinking spell during the afternoon, he returned to his home at Anoka. He retired early.

When he suffered a severe attack before death came, a doctor was called, but arrived too late to be of aid.

Col. Pratt was born on a farm near Anoka in 1872 and was educated in the Anoka high school and the University of Minnesota. He was graduated from the College of Law at the University in 1895.

Immediately after his graduation he went into public work, serving from 1895 to 1901 as city attorney of Anoka and county attorney from 1901 to 1914. Then he served two terms in the legislature as a member of the house.

Col. Pratt served for about 30 years in the Minnesota National Guard, enlisting as a private in 1899 in Co. B, 3d Minn. Inf., and served continuously until mustered out with the rank of Colonel in 1919.

During the Spanish American war he was a Lieutenant, later rising to rank of major of his regiment. He served on the Mexican border and in the world war as lieutenant colonel.

One of his sons is in California, another in Schenectady, N. Y., the third is a student at the state university. His daughter lives at home.

Col. Pratt was appointed assistant attorney general in September, 1919, and served in that capacity until appointed attorney general the first of the year to succeed C. L. Hilton, elevated to the state supreme bench.

Shooting husbands in St. Paul is to be considered a serious offense despite the fact that in other cities of the United States a wife behind a gun is considered in a light vein.

At least this is the opinion of Judge Hugo O. Hanft who decreed that Mrs. Mabel Hawkins, 27, must stand trial for the shooting of her husband at their home November 17.

"The court cannot consider lightly cases in which women shoot their husbands," Judge Hanft said in making it clear that he would not entertain a motion to dismiss the case even though the husband, who for several weeks lay near death, was in a forgiving mood.

Trial for the young wife will open
Feb. 6.

STORY OF WINONA, OF SIOUX LEGEND, HEARD BY 10,000

Minneapolis, Jan. 28.—(UP)—For the first time in 26 years, the David Bishman memorial medal was presented outside of Chicago when it was conferred last night upon Alberto Blomoni, composer of the Indian opera, Winona.

The medal is given for distinguished work in the composition of purely American operas and is named for David Bishman, civil war veteran, first person to suggest American operas and to think English a singable language.

Before nearly 10,000 persons, the story of Winona, Indian maiden who loved and died in the legend of the Sioux, was unfolded in music at the Minneapolis auditorium last night.

ST. PAUL'S FIGHT AGAINST MERGER LED BY MAYOR

HEARING REOPENED MONDAY
AT ST. PAUL BEFORE
I. C. C.

RAILROAD & WAREHOUSE COM-
MISSION, INTERVENING, HAS TAKEN NO STAND

St. Paul, Jan. 28.—(UP)—St.
Paul's fight against the merger of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads will be led by Mayor Hodgson when the hearing is reopened here Monday before the interstate commerce commission.

It is probable the mayor will be the only witness called by the city.

The railroad and warehouse commission, although it has intervened has taken no stand on the issue. It is now preparing a statement which will be offered to the commerce commission.

According to information received from Portland, Ore., the Oregon public service commission will not change its stand taken in favor of the proposed unification, declaring that a strong unified railroad system presents greater possibilities for industrial development of the northwest than the present arrangement.

The Oregon commission contended that the merger eventually will mean increased payrolls with industrial expansion which in its opinion would follow the merger.

C. M. HILLMAN HEADS NORTHERN STATE EDITORS

NAMED PRESIDENT NORTHERN
MINNESOTA EDITORIAL
ASSOCIATION

CLOSING SESSION OF 20TH AN-NUAL MEETING AT ST.
CLOUD YESTERDAY

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 28.—(UP)— Clarence M. Hillman, publisher of the Two Harbors Chronicle, was elected unanimously as president of the Northern Minnesota Editorial Association late Friday at the closing session of its 20th annual meeting here.

Hillman, who served as vice-president last year, succeeds J. Paul Kinney of the Alexandria Citizen-News.

George Christie of Red Lake Falls, a brother-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was chosen vice-president. Kinney, the retiring president was made secretary and treasurer of the editor's group to succeed A. G. Rutledge who held office since the organization was formed 20 years ago.

FLEW OVER MANY MOUNTAINS, MOST DANGEROUS PATH

FRENZIED EXCITEMENT GRIP-
PED COLOMBIANS WHEN
HE ARRIVED

LONE EAGLE EXPERIENCED
SOME DIFFICULTY LOCAT-
ING LANDING FIELD

Bogota, Colombia, Jan. 28.—(UP)—
The spontaneous and warm cordiality of the Latin peoples today was bestowed upon Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the American good will flyer, who flew here from Cartagena over a dangerous airpath that had been conquered only once before.

It was one of Bogota's greatest occasions and the Colombian capital made good use of it.

From the moment that a tiny speck appeared in the skies over the city—the speck that eventually turned out to be the Spirit of St.
Louis—a frenzied excitement gripped the Colombian citizens. More than 100,000 had gathered at the Madrid field—about 20 miles out of the city—or lined the roadway which Lindbergh must use to go into Bogota.

He landed at Madrid field at 3 p. m., just as he had announced he would do. His course had taken him over jagged mountain peaks and at times the Spirit of St. Louis had to descend to an altitude of 8-600 feet in order to clear the mountains.

Lindbergh had difficulty in locating the landing field. He circled Bogota several times, soared over Mount Monserrat, flew low over several suburbs and then was greeted in the air by the Colombian aviator, Daza.

He was escorted to Madrid field, made a perfect landing, and then was almost crushed in the vigorous enthusiasm of the Colombians.

Everyone rushed upon the flyer.
They shouted. They cheered when he smiled upon them.

The "Queen" of the students, selected especially for the occasion, was escorted to the flyer and kissed him on the cheek. He grinned boyishly at this demonstration of friendship.

Then he was escorted into Bogota.
It was a sight unprecedented in Bogota's history. Along the entire course of the trip there were cheering thousands. The crowds threw flowers over Lindbergh's motor car and kept shouting a welcome.

A cavalry troop and several score motor cars served as a guard of honor for the American.

He was taken to the American legation and when he appeared in the early evening on the balcony there was a repetition of the joyous welcome. One great sign hung out over the street and on it was printed
"Bienvenido Lindbergh,"—"Welcome Lindbergh." Huge lights played on the house where Lindbergh stayed.

He was guest of honor at a tea and later at a dance last night.

Bogota, Jan. 28.—(UP)—In the midst of the royal honors being paid him by Colombia, Col. Charles A.
Lindbergh today was looking forward to his next flight on his goodwill tour which he plans to end at the Havana Pan-American conference February 8.

Lindbergh told the United Press
he would leave here Sunday, intending to fly in a direct line to Caracas, Venezuela. He expected to leave in the morning and arrive at the Venezuelan capital in the afternoon.

From Caracas, Lindbergh's itinerary was to be at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, January 31; Porto Rico, February 2; Santo Domingo, February 4; Haiti, February 6 and Havana, February 8.

A. F. PRATT

Attorney General of Minnesota, who died at his home in Anoka today.

BLASCO IBANEZ, GREAT WRITER, PASSED AWAY

AUTHOR BEST KNOWN FOR THE
"FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE"

WAS SUFFERING FROM BRON-
CHIAL PNEUMONIA, DIA-
BETES, PLEURISY

Paris, France, Jan. 28.—(UP)— Blasco Ibanez, author who was best known for the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" died at his home on the French Riviera at 3 a. m. today, according to advices from Mentone.

He was suffering from bronchial pneumonia, diabetes and pleurisy.
The Spanish author, who was in voluntary exile because of the differences of his political views from those of the ruling powers of Spain, had been ill for several days.

Yesterday his condition became worse and his two sons and a daughter were summoned.

One son was reported flying to his father's bedside.

It was Ibanez's political movements that brought about the voluntary exile.

He wrote the pamphlet "Alfonso XII Unmasked"—a charge that the king had betrayed France by giving secret information to Germany during the war and also a charge that the king was responsible for military disaster in Morocco—and had them distributed throughout the world.

All his life he had delved into politics and many times was arrested and convicted to serve at hard labor for his political penings. Once he went into voluntary exile in Argentina and lived there for many years.

He finally took refuge in his own villa on the French Riviera and continued attacks on the Spanish throne from there.

In addition to the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" Ibanez's best known writings were "Blood and Sand," "Mare Nostrum," and
"The Temptress."

His greatest fame came from the
"Four Horsemen of the Apocalypses."
Its appeal was striking throughout the world, particularly in the English speaking countries. It was made into a motion pictures which was a pronounced success.

Ibanez was born at Valencia, Spain, January 29, 1867. He was married twice. His first wife died in 1925 and he remarried the same year.

The Spanish author twice visited the United States, the last time in 1923 when he gave many lectures throughout the country.

Geneva, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Blasco Ibanez' unexpected death deprived the world of what he had planned to be his masterpiece and one that he had hoped would herald the dawn of perpetual world peace. League of Nations officials revealed today.

It was to be a novel, called "The Fifth Horseman of the Apocalypse," and the horseman was to be universal brotherhood.

SEIZED WITH ATTACK DURING LAST NIGHT

DEATH CAME AT 4:45 A. M. AT
HIS ANOKA HOME AT AGE
OF 55 YEARS

HAD BEEN APPOINTED TO OF-FICE JANUARY 1, SUC-
CEEDING HILTON

Anoka, Minn., Jan. 28.—(UP)— Attorney General F. Pratt died at his home here this morning. He was 55 years old. He succumbed as he prepared to leave his home for his offices in St. Paul.

The cause of death was not determined. The county coroner was called but made no official announcement.

Pratt suffered a short spell of dizziness at his office here yesterday, and again after he returned to his home he became ill, but recovered before he retired.

Shortly after 4 o'clock this morning he was again stricken, but the attack apparently passed over without ill results. When the attorney general arose shortly before 5 o'clock he was stricken again, and succumbed.

Pratt was born in 1872.

Anoka, Minn., Jan. 28.—(UP)—
Col. A. F. Pratt, recently appointed State Attorney General died sudde-ly today at his home here.

Death came at 4:45 a. m.

Col. Pratt had complained of a "dizzy spell" at his office Friday but thought nothing more of it when it passed over without any apparent ill effects. He was seized with an attack during the night,
and died a short time later.

Dr. A. T. Caine, who attended him, said his death was due to hardening of the arteries about the heart.

Col. Pratt was appointed attorney general Jan. 1 this year to succeed Clifford L. Hilton, who was appointed Associate Judge of the Supreme Court. Hilton succeeded Justice Quinn of Fairmont, resigned.

The widow, three sons and a daughter survive Col. Pratt.

Col. Pratt, as he had been familiarly known for years was at his office in St. Paul Friday, apparently in the best of health. Following his sinking spell during the afternoon, he returned to his home at Anoka. He retired early.

When he suffered a severe attack before death came, a doctor was called, but arrived too late to be of aid.

Col. Pratt was born on a farm near Anoka in 1872 and was educated in the Anoka high school and the University of Minnesota. He was graduated from the College of Law at the University in 1895.

Immediately after his graduation
he went into public work, serving from 1895 to 1901 as city attorney of Anoka and county attorney from 1901 to 1914. Then he served two terms in the legislature as a member of the house.

Col. Pratt served for about 30 years in the Minnesota National Guard, enlisting as a private in 1895 in Co. B, 3d Minn. Inf., and served continuously until mustered out with the rank of Colonel in 1919.

During the Spanish American war he was a lieutenant, later rising to rank of major of his regiment.
He served on the Mexican border and in the world war as lieutenant-colonel.

One of his sons is in California, another in Schenectady, N. Y., the third is a student at the state university. His daughter lives at home.

Col. Pratt was appointed assistant attorney general in September, 1919, and served in that capacity until appointed attorney general the first of the year to succeed C. L. Hilton, elevated to the state supreme bench.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Anderson Surprised on 15th Wedding Anniversary

RECEIVE FINE REMEMBRANCE

Members And Friends of Swedish Bethany Church Join in Program

About seventy members and friends of the Swedish Bethany church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Anderson, 607 Third Ave. N. E., last evening and pleasantly surprised them, the occasion being their fifteenth wedding anniversary.

To the strains of the wedding march Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and three children were ushered into the room. The program was then opened by the singing of a hymn after which Oscar Swanson explained the purpose of the gathering. He then called upon Rev. C. J. Nygren who read an appropriate scripture text and lead in prayer and also spoke briefly on the text, Miss Esther Vogelstrom rendered a beautiful vocal solo in her usual charming manner. Other speakers included Mrs. P. G. Fallquist, John Soderlund, Frank Anderson and Carl Anderson. Mr. Soderlund, father of Mrs. Anderson reviewed the early courtship of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson. An interesting poem about the courtship and married life of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson which was written by Miss Pearl Cater was read. Mrs. Ben Anderson sang two solos. Mr. Swanson spoke again of the faithful work that is being carried on in the church by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, and their devoted interest in the young people. In behalf of those present as a token of appreciation and friendship, he presented them with a beautiful floor lamp.

Refreshments were served at a late hour after which the crowd departed congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

DIRIGIBLE LANDS ON DECK OF AIRCRAFT CARRIER IN ATLANTIC

Washington, Jan. 28. — (UP)—Parachuting importance was attached here today to the feat of the dirigible Los Angeles in landing on the deck of the aircraft carrier Saratoga in the Atlantic yesterday.

Details of the experiment were lacking at the navy department, but Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the navy's aeronautics bureau, declared it showed the practicability of the landing lighter-than-air ships on commercial craft as well as naval carriers.

This would enable dirigibles to refuel vessels at sea, greatly aiding trans-Atlantic passenger service by air, Moffett said.

ARMY AND NAVY GRID ARGUMENT IS NOW CLOSED

MAJ. GEN. WINANS, SUPT. OF WEST POINT, DECLINES TO REOPEN IT

SEES NO REASON ATTENDING A CONCILIATION CONFERENCE

New York, Jan. 28. — (UP)—Biff Jones, coach of the United States Military Academy football team has made public a telegram in which Major General E. B. Winans, superintendent of the academy declined to re-open the Army-Navy football controversy.

The telegram was addressed to Congressman Hamilton Fish, who had invited General Winans to attend a proposed conference with Admiral L. M. Nulton, superintendent of the Naval Academy in an attempt to heal the athletic breach between the two academies.

Admiral Nulton had agreed to the conference suggested and the war department, through General Chas. P. Summerall, chief of staff, announced that it expected the Military Academy to do likewise.

The telegram read: "I am in receipt of your telegram of January 26 inviting me to meet with you and Admiral Nulton at the Harvard club on March 1.

"I can see no valid reason for attending such a conference.

"Admiral Nulton and I, the two responsible superintendents, on January 7 made public an announcement of our mutual decision that the Army and Navy football game of 1928 would not be played. This action on my part was taken after careful consideration of my official responsibility for the development of future officers of the Army in which equality of opportunity in all activities of the academy is fundamental. A principal is thus involved which cannot be compromised.

"As superintendent of the Military Academy I am convinced that further public agitation or discussion of the subject can result only in harm to the best interests of the two services.

"Under these conditions, while I thank you for the invitation, I am unable to accept it.

"Major General E. B. Winans."

Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Anderson Surprised on 15th Wedding Anniversary

RECEIVE FINE REMEMBRANCE

Members And Friends of Swedish Bethany Church Join in Program

About seventy members and friends of the Swedish Bethany church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Anderson, 607 Third Ave. N. E., last evening and pleasantly surprised them, the occasion being their fifteenth wedding anniversary.

To the strains of the wedding march Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and three children were ushered into the room. The program was then opened by the singing of a hymn after which Oscar Swanson explained the purpose of the gathering. He then called upon Rev. C. J. Nygren who read an appropriate scripture text and lead in prayer and also spoke briefly on the text. Miss Esther Fogelstrom rendered a beautiful vocal solo in her usual charming manner. Other speakers included Mrs. P. G. Fallquist, John Soderlund, Frank Anderson and Carl Anderson. Mr. Soderlund, father of Mrs. Anderson reviewed the early courtship of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson. An interesting poem about the courtship and married life of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson which was written by Miss Pearl Cater was read. Mrs. Ben Anderson sang two solos. Mr. Swanson spoke again of the faithful work that is being carried on in the church by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, and their devoted interest in the young people. In behalf of those present as a token of appreciation and friendship, he presented them with a beautiful floor lamp.

Refreshments were served at a late hour after which the crowd departed congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

DIRIGIBLE LANDS ON DECK OF AIRCRAFT CARRIER IN ATLANTIC

Washington, Jan. 28. — (UP)—Far-reaching importance was attached here today to the feat of the dirigible Los Angeles in landing on the deck of the aircraft carrier Saratoga in the Atlantic yesterday.

Details of the experiment were lacking at the navy department, but Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the navy's aeronautics bureau, declared it showed the practicability of the landing lighter-than-air ships on commercial craft as well as naval carriers.

This would enable dirigibles to refuel vessels at sea, greatly aiding trans-Atlantic passenger service by air, Moffett said.

Gilbert Roland Wounded in Screen Sword Play

An example of how realistic the scenes of sword-play are in "The Love Mart," which will be seen Sunday only at the Lyceum theatre, was revealed when Gilbert Roland received a severe wound, accidentally inflicted by one of the practical slave-runners, with a broadsword. Luckily, the wound was not serious enough to prevent Roland, in the masculine lead, from working again within a few hours.

ARMY AND NAVY GRID ARGUMENT IS NOW CLOSED

MAJ. GEN. WINANS, SUPT. OF WEST POINT, DECLINES TO REOPEN IT

SEES NO REASON ATTENDING A CONCILIATION CONFERENCE

New York, Jan. 28. — (UP)—Biff Jones, coach of the United States Military Academy football team has made public a telegram in which Major General E. B. Winans, superintendent of the academy declined to re-open the Army-Navy football controversy.

The telegram was addressed to Congressman Hamilton Fish, who had invited General Winans to attend a proposed conference with Admiral L. M. Nulton, superintendent of the Naval Academy in an attempt to heal the athletic breach between the two academies.

Admiral Nulton had agreed to the conference suggested and the war department, through General Chas. P. Summerall, chief of staff, announced that it expected the Military Academy to do likewise.

The telegram read: "I am in receipt of your telegram of January 26 inviting me to meet with you and Admiral Nulton at the Harvard club on March 1.

"I can see no valid reason for attending such a conference.

"Admiral Nulton and I, the two responsible superintendents, on January 7 made public an announcement of our mutual decision that the Army and Navy football game of 1928 would not be played. This action on my part was taken after careful consideration of my official responsibility for the development of future officers of the Army in which equality of opportunity in all activities of the academy is fundamental. A principal is thus involved which cannot be compromised.

"As superintendent of the Military Academy I am convinced that further public agitation or discussion of the subject can result only in harm to the best interests of the two services.

"Under these conditions, while I thank you for the invitation, I am unable to accept it.

"Major General E. B. Winans."

HALF MILLION DOLLAR OIL FIRE

COLONNADE OF FLAMES ILLUMINATES SKY AT McCANEY, TEXAS

McCane, Texas, Jan. 28.—(UP)—A colonnade of flames illuminated the sky for miles around McCane as the thousands of barrels of oil stored in the tanks of the Humble Oil Company Refinery here continued to burn.

Started from a terrific explosion in Tank No. 15 late yesterday, the flaming oil set fire to 14 other tanks ranging in capacity from 600 to 3,000 barrels.

Only one man was killed in the blast, which shook the countryside, although reports carried by a press association other than the United Press at first placed the death toll as high as 60 men. Fred Hendricks, chemist, who was working on top of Tank No. 15, was blown to bits by the blast.

Property loss will exceed $500,000, it was announced.

Five other men working near the scene of the blast were seriously burned by the flaming oil. They will recover.

Cause of the blast was the subject of an investigation today by officials of the company. The tank which exploded was being cleaned at the time of the explosion.

SEEK TO SOLVE THE MYSTERY OF COLLEGE GIRL'S DISAPPEARANCE

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 28.—(UP)—A scientific and minute survey was underway today in an attempt to solve the mystery of the disappearance from Smith college of Miss Frances St. John Smith.

Every known method was to be used, including psycho-analysis, as authorities and the girl's family determined to get at the reason for the disappearance of the pretty daughter of a wealthy New York family.

Miss Smith was last seen at Smith college on January 13. She is believed to have left her dormitory that afternoon, either of her own volition or under duress.

REV. ALONZO F. WORKMAN TOSSES HIS HAT IN THE RING

NOW ANNOUNCES AIRPLANE TOUR OF NATION AS CAMPAIGN STUNT

Duncan, Okla., Jan. 28.—(UP)—The "darkhorse" of democracy—the Rev. Alonzo F. Workman of Duncan and Joplin, Mo.—may go up in the air in his presidential campaign.

Following the pegging of his hat in the 1928 presidential ring, the Rev. Workman, a Baptist minister, now announces an airplane tour of the nation, provided he can secure financial backing.

He is seeking at present to file his name on the ballots of 17 states having preferential primaries as the 1928 democratic presidential candidate.

He has disclosed that he also forwarded to "Billy" Sunday, evangelist, petitions which he hoped would be circulated in St. Louis and in adjacent Illinois territory.

His next request will be the services of a newspaper man to manage his whirlwind campaign, Workman said.

Candidate Workman said "the presidency of the United States is a spiritual office born of freedom, and comes to us as an inheritance from our fathers who suffered persecution and privation in the early history of the republic to bring it into existence."

This, Workman believes, eliminates 50 per cent of the potential politicians. One-half of the men seeking office, the minister believes, are spiritually unfit for their goals.

Gov. Al Smith of New York, fellow democrat, is his only real opponent, Workman said.

"The spiritual as well as the material functions of the office (presidency) maintain their independent jurisdiction under the declaration of independence and of the wise and well defined principles of the Monroe doctrine, which forbids further aggression in the western hemisphere by a foreign power," his platform statement adds.

His next paragraph he did not interpret. It reads:

"The sentiment of this highest office within the gift of the people penetrates every avenue of our American institution."

Prohibition gets attention in his closing paragraph in this fashion:

"If I am elected, I will live up to the constitution of the United States and the high spiritual ideals of the presidency."

SCORES 'MOSSHEADS' WHO THINK WOMAN HAS NO ABILITY

New York, Jan. 28.—(UP)—A pretty 27-year-old girl declined the vice presidency of a large advertising agency today because "Too many mossheads, whose opinions of women's ability in business belong to the stone age, head our big corporations."

The girl is Louise Luckenbill, who six years ago was an advertising solicitor for the Schultz-McGregor corporation and now holds the position of secretary.

"When I was offered the vice presidency, I told my superiors that the firm would lose business if I accepted it," she explained to the United Press. "I wasn't trying to be noble because it's to my advantage to have the company for which I am working be successful.

"So I turned it down. That's all there is to it."

The girl said she was convinced that "there are still many business men so prejudiced against young women that they would throw up their hands in horror at the idea of a woman being the first vice president of an agency which served them."

The prejudice is waning, she believes, but it will exist for many years.

SWEET AND CLEAN

THE other day when the wind was blowing and the snow flying, a young girl came into our office who was like a ray of sunshine. She was just as sweet and clean as the breath of a clear May morning. One glance at the girl showed that she was wholesome and sound. She chatted a few minutes and her conversation created as favorable an impression as did her appearance. She showed an appreciation of the privileges that she is enjoying at one of our state colleges and spoke with keen interest of her plans for the coming year. That girl was fresh, clean and sound; she had no frayed, shopworn edges; she had that which should be the heritage of every young boy and girl, a sane, healthy outlook on life.

As we looked at that girl and recalled the fact that she is a daughter in a home where the father and mother have exercised exceedingly watchful care over the children and taught them to be respectful and obedient, even to the point that some of their friends have considered rather old-fashioned, we could not refrain from thinking that other parents might well have followed their example.

These young girls in their early teens are so attractive and sweet if they just exercise a reasonable amount of care in guarding that which is priceless and which they often hold so lightly. It may sound old-fashioned, but after all it does pay to be exceedingly careful with these girls, and the public as well as the parents should bear this in mind in regulating the social affairs and other activities of the community.—Princeton Union.

WELCOME NEW FACTORY

THE DISPATCH and all citizens of Brainerd welcome the new garment factory in this city. Financed by local people, the Hickerson and Company corporation will start business early in February.

The factory has that rare combination of a man at its head who knows every phase of the garment making business, designing, cutting, manufacturing, selling, credits, etc. Of an observant nature, Mr. Hickerson's models in the garment lines are distinctive and command attention. He has that priceless "it", that personality in the garments he manufactures that distinguish the Hickerson-made garments from rival manufacturers.

The factory has secured a central location in the business section of the city, which in itself will do much to advertise the factory to lake and tourist travel and others.

That the factory is assured of success and continued operation is evidenced by the fact that enough orders have been booked to date to continue uninterrupted operation to March 1, 1929. It will give employment to a number of local people.

The factory is the opening wedge of the campaign of the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce to increase the payrolls of the city.

INTELLIGENT SUPPORT NEEDED BY GOVERNMENT

WHENEVER the United States asserts itself in its relations with other nations, as it is now doing in Nicaragua, there is always a squawk from the Little Americans who are not in accord with the government policies of the moment, points out an editorial in Liberty Magazine.

"Washington, Lincoln, McKinley, Roosevelt, Wilson, Coolidge—all the Presidents and all their administrations—have been beset by the Little Americans," explains the editorial.

"Policies of national conduct carefully planned and based on experience and investigation," continues the editorial, "mean nothing to Little Americans. Theories are so much more easily acquired than knowledge. It is more fun to sit back and say 'don't' than to give intelligent support to those in authority."

"Well, in spite of our chronic wrongness we have managed reasonably well. There is a suspicion in some quarters that the United States of America is not so bad. Most of the Little Americans seem willing to stay here."

A BIG AMERICAN NEED

ONE of the biggest American needs, court actions all over the country have indicated during the recent past, is something to take the place of its out-worn, archaic and—in the light of plain evidence—foolish jury system.

No person can survive the juror's examination at the hands of opposing attorneys unless he or she is unable to read, hear or think, too ignorant or is a horrible liar.

It is silly, at least in cases of a type that demand worldwide discussion in the newspapers, to expect to find a jurymen who has not read or talked of a case among persons who possess anything close to normal mental capacity and judgment. It is foolish to expect an intelligent persons not to have ideas regarding it, for generally, after one has read a full resume of the fact in the papers an entirely open mind means one that is totally devoid of the machinery used for the thinking process.—Owatonna Journal-Chronicle.

ENJOY THE PAPER

WRITING from their home in Huntington Beach, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Carr F. Cooley express their appreciation of the Brainerd Dispatch. They write:

"Wish to say through your paper, that we surely do enjoy reading the news items from the different townships, especially those from Nokay and Oak Lawn townships, as we formerly resided there. We came to sunny California seven years ago. We look forward with a great deal of pleasure to receiving our old home paper every week."

CHAPTER I

Years Ago

"I, Enrique de Solano y Vasquez, on behalf of my sovereign lord, Philip, King of Spain, do hereby claim these lands and waters as his, to the glory of God and the crown of Castile."

This leader from Old Spain, resplendent in gold lace and handsome satins, sat astride his horse, holding his mighty sword aloft by the blade with point downward so that it gave the effect of a cross.

It was a reverential and epoch making moment, that 27th day of June, 1776, when San Francisco was thus founded by the romantic Spaniards.

The officers were men of the highest rank, courageous adventurers who could surmount appalling obstacles without fear of disaster or suffering. Their cavalcade came through the virgin wilderness of California with a small band of Franciscan Padres, mulattoes, Mission Indians, a few belongings, a handful of settlers, many provisions and ninety head of cattle. They were intent upon reaching the shores of Monterey Bay and erecting a Mission there, but good fortune led them to another harbor of far greater magnificence and splendor and on its shores they began to build Old San Francisco.

family Chapel, marked his grave. There were also six crosses in the little cemetery which indicated that there had been many sad hours to mar the pleasant merry-making.

But finally all the pride and glory of the fiery conqueror had been handed down to two stalwart grandsons, who with their mother comprised the entire Vasquez line. Their valuable lands were secondarily only to the honor of their cherished name.

The leisurely life and prosperity of the Vasquez family was suddenly uprooted on an apparently peaceful day in January, 1848.

They had no indication that a terrible tragedy was hovering over them. A sumptuous luncheon of wild game, wines and fruit was arranged on a magnificent silver service and placed before the three members of the household by as many faithful servants.

"The finest Madeira from Spain cannot surpass this wine from our own presses," modestly boasted the elder Vasquez, draining his glass.

"You are right, my son," his Mother agreed, "and even now the peons are industriously gathering more grapes for this year's supply."

They looked through the great arched doorway off in the distance to where their extensive vineyards were being stripped of the season's luscious fruit.

"With your permission I will go out and see how the work is progressing."

Two land the Spaniards felt at home. California was theirs by right of discovery and possession. They had braved cruel hardships to gain her shores and were proud of their victorious conquest. The vast expanse of the Pacific had formerly been known to them as their own "Spanish Lake" and it would bring friends, commerce and prosperity to their very gates.

When the last echo of Enrique de Solano y Vasquez's words had died away in the vast stillness he slowly lowered his great sword and proudly read the Spanish inscription wrought in gold upon the ornate hill:

"Vasquez
Ad majorem Dei gloriam
Vasquez, Vasquez, vindicat."
In the language of his new country it translated to:

"Vasquez
For the greater glory of God
A Vasquez avenges a Vasquez."

Quickly dismounting, Vasquez plunged his sword's long blade into the earth with a flourish that would have killed the most powerful foes.

Immediately the officers, soldiers and settlers dropped to their knees. The Padres raised reverent hands in benediction, hats were swept off and every head was bowed in prayer.

The setting sun added its warm blessing and then disappeared on its trip around the world. But it could not take away the glory or the importance of the day. The history of California had become a vital part of the history of civilization. Enrique de Solano y Vasquez had established the Presidio of San Francisco.

In those care-free days from 1776 to 1848 no one did any more work than was pleasing. The women were exceptionally lovely and there was never any cause for slander that could smirch their good names. The men were bold, proud, temperamental and gracefully idle.

Life was just one glorious procession of love making, gaiety, visiting and cordial hospitality and the house of Vasquez was the most favored social center of all the aristocrats.

The picturesque hacienda, a huge, rambling, vine covered structure, was on a hill that topped the vast estate. All the dreamy, indolent charm of Spain had been born again in its colorful architecture and romantic surroundings.

The adventurous soul of the first Vasquez had long since passed on and a dignified headstone, in the private burial plot adjoining the

"With your permission, my Mother, I will go out and see how the work is progressing."

The beautiful Spanish head nodded in assent. "Remember to return in time to welcome our guests!"

The elder Vasquez bowed low before his Mother and sauntered out through the archway.

This hacienda doors were already opened wide to receive a host of friends invited in for an afternoon and evening fiesta. Exquisite Spanish shawls and elaborate throws had been strewn across chairs to protect the ladies' silken gowns. For a whole week the servants had been preparing rare and delicious delicacies. The spacious bubbling fountain in the courtyard was filled with sparkling water—waiting to reflect the gaiety and chance flirtations that would be mirrored in its depths when romantic night settled down. Even the plumed cockatoo, swinging in its ring, was puffing out its feathers in best holiday fashion.

But unfortunately none of these preparations or possible pleasures were destined to be enjoyed.

Disloyalty, Disaster, Tragedy and Death were to be the Vasquez's only visitors and Fate was sending them on long before the appointed hour.

CHAPTER II

The Gold Rush

A horseman galloped madly along the winding roadway and into the patio at breakneck speed, his voice rang out in loud excited shouts above the clatter of his pony's feet.

The elder Vasquez stopped on the vineyard path and ceased stroking his great hound's friendly head.

Mother and younger son, Don Hernandez, left the luncheon table in alarm and rushed into the patio.

The peons threw down their old fashioned scythes and came running from the wheat fields, the vineyards and gardens.

Pulling the pony to an abrupt halt that lifted him high on his hind legs, the horseman waved a flask in mid air and yelled:

"Gold! Gold! There's been a gold strike at Sutter's Mill on the American River." The flask that he waved in exultation was filled with a wealth of dust for all to see.

"The river is running with gold—gold! Gold! Gold! Gold!"

No sooner was the arresting announcement made than he put spurs to his horse and dashed away and off to spread the news still farther.

RIOT AT CHICAGO
50TH WARD CLUB

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Control of the 50th Ward Republican club means something to the members of the two factions who attend its meetings. Last night it meant a riot.

Fifty policemen were required to stop the battle which arose over argument as to which of the two factions would control the club. When the officers arrived, 300 men and women were battling with fists, feet, chairs, table legs and whatever else was handy.

George Meehan, president of the club, had relinquished the chair, after someone struck him with another one. He was suffering from a long gash in his scalp. Other officers were badly bruised.

4 AMENDMENTS TO RADIO LAW
ARE INTRODUCED

Washington, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Four amendments to the radio law designed to continue the Federal Radio commission, under certain restrictions, until March 15, 1929, were introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator Dill (Dem., Wash.).

The commission would be empowered to change terms of chain broadcasting licenses at any time under one amendment. Another would provide that broadcasting licenses be limited to a six months period. A third amendment would make it unlawful for any firm to limit the use of radio tubes or equipment or to fix their resale value. The fourth continues the commission for another year.

Know Your Sweetheart
by His Handwriting

By EDNA PURDY WALSH

Editor, Character Reading Magazine.

Does He Think Ahead?

Date that check
Has he the quality of vision? Can he see through the things of today and focus his eye on tomorrow or the "rainy day?"

When shall letter d turn back to the left, the writer is capable of going along at a conservative, careful pace, but nevertheless going along. As he goes steadily but calmly along he visualizes the future and plans for the following day as he has planned for the present.

Words that are connected from the t bars—from one t to another—show the urge to plan for the future. Short, firm t bars are made by this type of writer.

Margins are generally narrow in the writing of one who has an eye open for the morrow. Words are written fairly close. Capitals are large but writing is not sprawly or thrown on the page. This is a sign of impulsiveness.

The letter s is closed and writing appears to be firm and the product of one with judgment and reason. Lower loops are made with these corners sometimes.

Note—Do not make final judgment until other signs in writing are studied. (Copyright.)

SWEET AND CLEAN

The other day when the wind was blowing and the snow flying, a young girl came into our office who was like a ray of sunshine. She was just as sweet and clean as the breath of a clear May morning. One glance at the girl showed that she was wholesome and sound. She chatted a few minutes and her conversation created as favorable an impression as did her appearance. She showed an appreciation of the privileges that she is enjoying at one of our state colleges and spoke with keen interest of her plans for the coming year. That girl was fresh, clean and sound; she had no frayed, shopworn edges; she had that which should be the heritage of every young boy and girl, a sane, healthy outlook on life.

As we looked at that girl and recalled the fact that she is a daughter in a home where the father and mother have exercised exceedingly watchful care over the children and taught them to be respectful and obedient, even to the point that some of their friends have considered rather old-fashioned, we could not refrain from thinking that other parents might well have followed their example.

These young girls in their early teens are so attractive and sweet if they just exercise a reasonable amount of care in guarding that which is priceless and which they often hold so lightly. It may sound old-fashioned, but after all it does pay to be exceedingly careful with these girls, and the public as well as the parents should bear this in mind in regulating the social affairs and other activities of the community.—Princeton Union.

WELCOME NEW FACTORY

THE DISPATCH and all citizens of Brainerd welcome the new garment factory in this city. Financed by local people, the Hickerson and Company corporation will start business early in February.

The factory has that rare combination of a man at its head who knows every phase of the garment making business, designing, cutting, manufacturing, selling, credits, etc. Of an observant nature, Mr. Hickerson's models in the garment lines are distinctive and command attention. He has that priceless "it," that personality in the garments he manufactures that distinguish the Hickerson-made garments from rival manufacturers.

The factory has secured a central location in the business section of the city, which in itself will do much to advertise the factory to lake and tourist travel and others.

That the factory is assured of success and continued operation is evidenced by the fact that enough orders have been booked to date to continue uninterrupted operation to March 1, 1929. It will give employment to a number of local people.

The factory is the opening wedge of the campaign of the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce to increase the payrolls of the city.

INTELLIGENT SUPPORT NEEDED BY GOVERNMENT

WHENEVER the United States asserts itself in its relations with other nations, as it is now doing in Nicaragua, there is always a squawk from the Little Americans who are not in accord with the government policies of the moment, points out an editorial in Liberty Magazine.

"Washington, Lincoln, McKinley, Roosevelt, Wilson, Coolidge—all the Presidents and all their administrations—have been beset by the Little Americans," explains the editorial.

"Policies of national conduct carefully planned and based on experience and investigation," continues the editorial, "mean nothing to Little Americans. Theories are so much more easily acquired than knowledge. It is more fun to sit back and say 'don't' than to give intelligent support to those in authority."

"Well, in spite of our chronic wrongness we have managed reasonably well. There is a suspicion in some quarters that the United States of America is not so bad. Most of the Little Americans seem willing to stay here."

A BIG AMERICAN NEED

ONE of the biggest American needs, court actions all over the country have indicated during the recent past, is something to take the place of its out-worn, archaic and—in the light of plain evidence—foolish jury system.

No person can survive the juror's examination at the hands of opposing attorneys unless he or she is unable to read, hear or think, too ignorant or is a horrible liar.

It is silly, at least in cases of a type that demand worldwide discussion in the newspapers, to expect to find a juryman who has not read or talked of a case among persons who possess anything close to normal mental capacity and judgment. It is foolish to expect an intelligent persons not to have ideas regarding it, for generally, after one has read a full resume of the fact in the papers an entirely open mind means one that is totally devoid of the machinery used for the thinking process.—Owatonna Journal-Chronicle.

ENJOY THE PAPER

WRITING from their home in Huntington Beach, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Carr F. Cooley express their appreciation of the Brainerd Dispatch. They write:

"Wish to say through your paper, that we surely do enjoy reading the news items from the different townships, especially those from Nokay and Oak Lawn townships, as we formerly resided there. We came to sunny California seven years ago. We look forward with a great deal of pleasure to receiving our old home paper every week."

A BAND of 40 players for Aitkin, directed by a professional concert band master, may be realized if negotiations under consideration come through, according to an article in the Aitkin Independent Age. The director is to be Mr. Kleffman, of Hibbing, who was concert master with Lombardy's symphony orchestra.

THE amateur thinks ski jumping is not conducive to longevity. However, Carl Ek, who is past 50 years of age, is still skiing and last year outdistanced the champion at the national meet, but lost on points because of two falls.

CHAPTER I Years Ago

"I, Enrique de Solano y Vasquez, on behalf of my sovereign lord, Philip, King of Spain, do hereby claim these lands and waters as his, to the glory of God and the crown of Castile."

This leader from Old Spain, resplendent in gold lace and handsome satins, sat astride his horse, holding his mighty sword aloft by the blade with point downward so that it gave the effect of a cross.

It was a reverential and epoch making moment, that 27th day of June, 1776, when San Francisco was thus founded by the romantic Spaniards.

The officers were men of the highest rank, courageous adventurers who could surmount appalling obstacles without fear of disaster or suffering. Their cavalcade came through the virgin wilderness of California with a small band of Franciscan Padres, muleteers, Mission Indians, a few belongings, a handful of settlers, many provisions and ninety head of cattle. They were intent upon reaching the shores of Monterey Bay and erecting a Mission there, but good fortune led them to another harbor of far greater magnificence and splendor and on its shores they began to build Old San Francisco. A glorious hill site rising from the glistening ocean below! Although leagues away from their native land the Spaniards felt at home. California was theirs by right of discovery and possession. They had braved cruel hardships to gain her shores and were proud of their victorious conquest. The vast expanse of the Pacific had formerly been known to them as their own "Spanish Lake" and it would bring friends, commerce and prosperity to their new gates.

When the last echo of Enrique de Solano y Vasquez's words had died away in the vast stillness he slowly lowered his great sword and proudly read the Spanish inscription wrought in gold upon the ornate hilt:

"Vasquez
Ad majorem Dei gloriam
Vasquez, Vasquez, vindicatus."
In the language of his new country it translated to:

"Vasquez
For the greater glory of God
A Vasquez avenges a Vasquez."

Quickly dismounting, Vasquez plunged his sword's long blade into the earth with a flourish that would have killed the most powerful foes.

Immediately the officers, soldiers and settlers dropped to their knees. The Padres raised reverent hands in benediction, hats were swept off and every head was bowed in prayer.

The setting sun added its warm blessing and then disappeared on its trip around the world. But it could not take away the glory or the importance of the day. The history of California had become a vital part of the history of civilization. Enrique de Solano y Vasquez had established the Presidio of San Francisco.

In those care-free days from 1776 to 1848 no one did any more work than was pleasing. The women were exceptionally lovely and there was never any cause for slander that could smirch their good names. The men were bold, proud, temperamental and gracefully idle.

Life was just one glorious procession of love making, gaiety, visiting and cordial hospitality and the house of Vasquez was the most favored social center of all the aristocrats.

The picturesque hacienda, a huge, rambling, vine covered structure, was on a hill that topped the vast estate. All the dreamy, idyllic charm of Spain had been born again in its colorful architecture and romantic surroundings.

The adventurous soul of the first Vasquez had long since passed on and a dignified headstone, in the private burial plot adjoining the family Chapel, marked his grave. There were also six crosses in the little cemetery which indicated that there had been many sad hours to mar the pleasant merry-making.

But finally all the pride and glory of the fiery conqueror had been handed down to two stalwart grandsons, who with their mother comprised the entire Vasquez line. Their valuable lands were secondary only to the honor of their cherished name.

The leisurely life and prosperity of the Vasquez family was suddenly uprooted on an apparently peaceful day in January, 1848.

They had no indication that a terrible tragedy was hovering over them. A sumptuous luncheon of wild game, wines and fruit was arranged on a magnificent silver service and those before the three members of the household by as many faithful servants.

"The finest Madeira from Spain cannot surpass this wine from our own presses," modestly boasted the elder Vasquez, draining his glass.

"You are right, my son," his Mother agreed, "and even now the peons are industriously gathering more grapes for this year's supply."

They looked through the great arched doorway off in the distance to where their extensive vineyards were being stripped of the season's luscious fruit.

"With your permission I will go out and see how the work is progressing."

"With your permission, my Mother, I will go out and see how the work is progressing." The beautiful Spanish head nodded in assent. "Remember to return in time to welcome our guests!"

The elder Vasquez bowed low before his Mother and sauntered out through the archway.

The hacienda doors were already opened wide to receive a host of friends invited in for an afternoon and evening fiesta. Exquisite Spanish shawls and elaborate throws had been strewn across chairs to protect the ladies' silken gowns. For a whole week the servants had been preparing rare and delicious delicacies. The spacious bubbling fountain in the courtyard was filled with sparkling water—waiting to reflect the gayety and chance flirtations that would be mirrored in its depths when romantic night settled down. Even the plumed cockatoo, swinging in its ring, was puffing out its feathers in best holiday fashion.

But unfortunately none of these preparations or possible pleasures were destined to be enjoyed.

Disloyalty, Disaster, Tragedy and Death were to be the Vasquez's only visitors and Fate was sending them on long before the appointed hour.

CHAPTER II The Gold Rush

A horseman galloped madly along the winding roadway and into the patio at breakneck speed, his voice rang out in loud excited shouts above the clatter of his pony's feet.

The elder Vasquez stopped on the vineyard path and ceased stroking his great hound's friendly head. Mother and younger son, Don Hernandez, left the luncheon table in alarm and rushed into the patio.

The peons threw down their old fashioned scythes and came running from the wheat fields, the vineyards and gardens.

Pulling the pony to an abrupt halt that lifted him high on his hind legs, the horseman waved a flask in mid air and yelled:

"Gold! Gold! There's been a gold strike at Sutter's Mill on the American River." The flask that he waved in exultation was filled with a wealth of dust for all to see. "The river is running with gold—the hills are ribbed with it!"

No sooner was the arresting announcement made than he put spurs to his horse and dashed away and off to spread the news still farther.

RIOT AT CHICAGO 50TH WARD CLUB

Chicago, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Control of the 50th Ward Republican club means something to the members of the two factions who attend its meetings. Last night it meant a riot.

Fifty policemen were required to stop the battle which arose over argument as to which of the two factions would control the club. When the officers arrived, 300 men and women were battling with fists, feet, chairs, table legs and whatever else was handy.

George Meehan, president of the club, had relinquished the chair, after someone struck him with another one. He was suffering from a long laceration in his scalp. Other officers were badly bruised.

4 AMENDMENTS TO RADIO LAW ARE INTRODUCED

Washington, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Four amendments to the radio law designed to continue the Federal Radio commission, under certain restrictions, until March 15, 1929, were introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator Dill (Dem., Wash.).

The commission would be empowered to change terms of chain broadcasting licenses at any time under one amendment. Another would provide that broadcasting licenses be limited to a six months period. A third amendment would make it unlawful for any firm to limit the use of radio tubes or equipment or to fix their resale value. The fourth continues the commission for another year.

Know Your Sweetheart by His Handwriting

By EDNA PURDY WALSH
Editor, Character Reading Magazine.

Does He Think Ahead?

Date that check
Has he the quality of vision? Can he see through the things of today and focus his eye on tomorrow or the "rainy day?"

When shall letter d turn back to the left, the writer is capable of going along at a conservative, careful pace, but nevertheless going along. As he goes steadily but calmly along he visualizes the future and plans for the following day as he has planned for the present.

Words that are connected from the t-bars—from one t to another—show the urge to plan for the future.

Short, firm t-bars are made by this type of writer.

Margins are generally narrow in the writing of one who has an eye open for the morrow. Words are written fairly close. Capitals are large but writing is not sparsely or thrown on the page. This is a sign of impulsiveness.

The letter s is closed and writing appears to be firm and the product of one with judgment and reason. Lower loops are made with three corners sometimes.

Note.—Do not make final judgment until other signs in writing are studied. (Copyright.)

ESTABLISH SITE FOR NEW GARMENT FACTORY

Location Formerly Occupied by Northern Home Furnishing
Co. Selected

START WORK FEBRUARY 15

Applications to be Handled in Order
Received; 20 Women
Wanted

Establishment of the new garment factory to be operated by Hickerson and Company on the ground floor of the Iron Exchange building in the location formerly occupied by the Northern Home Furnishing Co. was announced late yesterday by S. R. Hickerson, president of the company.

The location was agreed upon at the first meeting of the board of directors held Thursday afternoon with S. R. Hickerson, president; Con O'Brien, vice president; R. R. Gould, secretary-treasurer; and W. H. Cleary and T. H. Croswell, directors, in attendance.

Mr. Hickerson stated to the Dispatch yesterday that actual operation of the new factory will start about February 15. The machinery for the plant will be shipped and installed within the next two weeks.

Three experienced women will be brought here from the former location of the factory to instruct the beginners. Twenty local women will be employed. Applications will be handled in the order received. All applications should be mailed to Hickerson and Company in care of the Chamber of Commerce office.

Mr. Hickerson said that widows or women having families dependent, and single girls will be given preference before married ladies with husbands who are employed. The women will be paid a straight salary during the first four weeks when they will learn the trade and after that they will be placed on "piece" work. Mr. Hickerson stated that it was possible for each employee to average on "piece" work over $15 a week.

Orders already on hand assure steady operation of the factory until March 1, 1929.

LECTURE BY REV. M. L. EVERSZ

"Gustavus Adolphus" Will be the
Subject at Swedish Bethany
Church Sunday Evening

"On account of the lucid style, the excellent arrangement and the most interesting manner in which the lecture was delivered I am able to recall more of the lecture than of most lectures I have heard," said Mr. G. L. Bowman, president of the Wapaca Co. Training School, after listening to Rev. M. L. Eversz of the local M. E. church deliver his lecture on "Gustavus Adolphus."

Rev. Eversz will give this historical address and character study of Gustavus Adolphus, the sixth king of Sweden, at the Swedish Bethany church on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Always Faithful class of the Sunday school. There will be no admission charged but a silver offering will be taken.

"No lack of pep" from start to finish," says the Sun Prairie Countryman, and all are assured there will not be a dull moment during the evening. From advance reports a large audience will greet the speaker. A hearty welcome is extended to all.

Chairman Reid (Ill.) said the bill should be ready for a report to the house within two weeks.

SCOUT ANALYSIS OF 1927 OUTLINED

B. Perry Newton, Scout Executive
Submits Yearly Report at Annual Meet

INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP

490 Scouts at Present Time Under Supervision of Crow Wing
Area Council

The annual report of B. Perry Newton, scout executive, submitted at the annual meeting of the Crow Wing Area Council last evening as follows:

Scouting has enjoyed in the past year greater popularity among the boys than in the previous year. In order to understand this condition and to be able to carry it through on a greater scale this coming year, it has seemed advisable to carefully analyze our general conditions of leadership, enrollment and advancement in the scouting requirements. I do not want to burden anyone with figures; however, in the final analysis these give a definite and concrete picture.

On December 31, 1926, we had fourteen troops with 288 scouts, 13 scoutmasters and 2 assistant scoutmasters. During the past year we have added 6 new troops with 99 new scouts. We also also gained by transfer from territory not under council previously 4 troops with a total of 93 scouts. It has been necessary to drop three troops and a total turnover of 155 scouts. This leaves us at the present time with a total enrollment of 23 troops, 454 scouts, 36 lone scouts which are boys residing in the rural territory too far from active troops to get in to their meetings, making a total of 490 scouts under the supervision of this council. We have 19 scoutmasters and 13 assistant scoutmasters.

This represents a gain in membership of 41 percent, 26 percent of which represents the actual gain in the territory in which we operated last year, balance being the territory transferred to this council. These figures further show that we have enlisted the services of 15 new scoutmasters during the past year. This figure set beside the turnover of 155 scouts should cause each one of us this conclusion. If we can by some effective means during this coming year cut down our turnover of both scoutmasters and scouts, we will then very materially increase our effectiveness as well as gain in enrollment. If we were to do nothing during the coming year but make a concerted effort toward this one thing, we would without taking any new boys in make a very material gain in scouts. The result of this would be infinitely greater effectiveness.

The standing of these scouts in the Council is as follows: 55 percent are tenderfoot rank, 25 percent second class and 18 percent first class or above. The upper two ranks or 43 percent of our enrollment has earned in the past year 420 merit badges. This means that a great many scouts have made valuable contacts with successful business men in regard to the different vocations from which they make their livelihood. The scout has unquestionably a better idea in the back of his mind as to what the task of earning livelihood means and as to what he might be best suited for. We now have 12 eagle scouts, 12 new eagles in 1927. Potential leadership for the near future.

During the spring months last year as a result of the action taken at the annual meeting, a training course was conducted to acquaint the men with methods of leading troops. At that time men who specialized in different activities dealing with scouting were invited in and gave us a wealth of material which was greatly appreciated. The different meetings of this training course were held in Brainerd, Crosby, Ironton, Staples and Aitkin. We had an average attendance of 30 or more men. Another course of this type should be planned for this year and possibly on the same general ideas the preceding one. This will help materially to gradually build up a trained corps of leaders which will in turn cut down our turnover of scoutmasters. With a better trained leadership we will also very materially cut down the abnormal scout turnover which we have at present. It will be interesting to note here that many of our assistant scoutmasters and even a few of our scoutmasters are men who have been scouts and in each case, they are doing very excellent work. The time is rapidly drawing near when the council with continuous existence will have young men in their community who have been scouts and will carry on as leaders of the troops.

The camping program during the past year brings to light several very unique and worthwhile features. Our regular summer camp located at Clearwater Lake was improved this last spring by the addition of permanent roofs on the six sleeping cabins and one new cabin located where the officers of the camp could be in close contact with the sleeping quarters at all times for purposes of supervision. We had a total of 224 scout weeks with 110 different boys in camp. Adult camp supervision was infinitely better provided for this year by having beside the assistant camp director who was a medical student, three junior leaders, one each from Staples, Brainerd and Aitkin. The actual operating cost per scout week was $5.10, the boy paying $3.50 of this, the balance coming out of the budget.

In addition to the activities at our regular camp, those boys who had completed their eagle scout work made a ten day canoe trip under supervision of Arthur Tornstrom, a scoutmaster from Minneapolis, Gerhart Flaata and the executive. There were 14 in the party which left Ely by canoe for a trip similar to that the Pioneers of the North Country had to make when the lakes and rivers were the only highways. A distance of about 200 miles was covered, taking them through the Superior National Forest and up into to Quetico Reserve of Ontario, Canada. This trip has been the means of stimulating our Eagle Scouts toward turning back their services into the community. Many of them have already amply repaid us for making this extra effort by way of reward. A similar trip is recommended for next year. An Eagle who was on the first trip would be expected, of course, to pay his entire way, if he should desire to go again. Because of the courtesy of the county commissioners loaning us the use of their army truck, we were able to keep the cost down to a minimum. This was greatly appreciated and they were so informed.

One of the unique features of our camping season was our late fall camp held during the Minnesota Teachers' Institute November 10, 11 and 12. At that time, boys from all over the area were in camp. Thirty-seven scouts participated in this annual event. The boys arrived in camp on one of the last days of our late balmy fall weather and took up their quarters in the regular summer cabins. Each boy was his own cook or generally two boys went together on the buddy plan. The second day it started to turn cold early in the morning and by night was about three inches of snow, the weather having suddenly dropped down to almost zero, a change of about 48 degrees in temperature. The things that impressed parents who came after the boys as peculiar was the general statement that the boy made saying he slept warmer the second night than the first night. In other words, those boys learned how to make a bed which is one more trick of caring for himself in an emergency. They built lean-tos to protect them from the snow and wind and cooked and ate there. This camp was a valuable asset in the lives of these 37 boys.

Winter camp has come and gone. Here again a small group of boys had an opportunity to learn how to live with their fellowman under the most trying conditions of small quarters, lots of hard work to be done to combat the cold weather. They all proved themselves able and proficient scouts.

I have the following recommendations to make at this time which in my judgment would materially strengthen the administration of scouting for the boyhood in these many communities participating in this council:

1. Our membership analysis shows us that our greatest need at present is the same as it was a year ago, namely to concentrate our efforts along the lines of developing greater proficiency in the leadership of our present troops through three channels. (a) Stressing the responsibility of the troop committee. (b) Providing more and better training courses for leaders. (c) Concentrate our efforts on the present territory and not attempting to secure greater enrollment or more troops but cutting down our turnover.

2. A more closely knit group of men in each community with a willingness to serve and guide and supervise development of scouting and

Passed Away Yesterday Morning;
Was Employee of Northern Pacific for Years

Burial rites for John Reddan, resident of Brainerd for the past 38 years were conducted this morning at 8 o'clock from the St. Francis church, Father O'Connell officiating. Interment was at Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Reddan passed away yesterday morning at the St. Joseph's hospital. He was well known here having been a coal dock employee of the Northern Pacific railway for many years. His wife died a few years ago. Following that time he had lived at 1108 Norwood street.

Mr. Reddan was born in New York. He is survived by one sister of New York city.

are willing to face financial problems necessary for the successful promotion of the scout movement. This is absolutely essential to preserve the present standard of scouting and to carry it on to greater accomplishments.

3. The mess hall accommodations at the present camp due to the climatic conditions of this North Country is absolutely inadequate to handle the number of boys which use it. This next spring before opening of camp it will be necessary to either enlarge the present or build a new mess hall. An incinerator must also be built to properly dispose of the waste from the kitchen. Two or more boats should be purchased to keep faith with the lawyer from Minneapolis, Mr. Arc-tanger, who so kindly purchased and gave to the camp two row boats and furthermore paid for the repainting of one of the old ones.

4. I recommend with the sanction of all the districts that an effort be made at the end of our fiscal year to raise a budget ample to carry activities of this council for a year and one-half bringing our fiscal year at the same time as our calendar year. The many benefits of this plan have been explained to the approval of everyone. In order to accomplish this, the entire area must be first thoroughly acquainted with the plan, secondly—the area must be treated as one large city divided into several wards with the campaign headed up by a general chairman with sub-committees in each district or ward guided by sub-chairman and enthusiasm stirred up by means of competition between the districts in an effort to get their entire quota raised during the time of the drive.

My contacts with the men in the various communities during the past year have been most pleasant and I sincerely appreciate the cooperation I have received and trust that we may together during the coming year enlist the hearty support of many more men in order to put this tremendous job across in an even bigger way than has been done in the past year.

ESTABLISH SITE FOR NEW GARMENT FACTORY

Location Formerly Occupied by
Northern Home Furnishing
Co. Selected

START WORK FEBRUARY 15

Applications to be Handled in Order
Received; 20 Women
Wanted

Establishment of the new garment factory to be operated by Hickerson and Company on the ground floor of the Iron Exchange building in the location formerly occupied by the Northern Home Furnishing Co. was announced late yesterday by S. R. Hickerson, president of the company.

The location was agreed upon at the first meeting of the board of directors held Thursday afternoon with S. R. Hickerson, president; Con O'Brien, vice president; R. R. Gould, secretary-treasurer; and W. H. Cleary and T. H. Crosswell, directors, in attendance.

Mr. Hickerson stated to the Dispatch yesterday that actual operation of the new factory will start about February 15. The machinery for the plant will be shipped and installed within the next two weeks.

Three experienced women will be brought here from the former location of the factory to instruct the beginners. Twenty local women will be employed. Applications will be handled in the order received. All applications should be mailed to Hickerson and Company in care of the Chamber of Commerce office.

Mr. Hickerson said that widows or women having families dependent, and single girls will be given preference before married ladies with husbands who are employed. The women will be paid a straight salary during the first four weeks when they will learn the trade and after that they will be placed on "piece" work. Mr. Hickerson stated that it was possible for each employee to average on "piece" work over $15 a week.

Orders already on hand assure steady operation of the factory until March 1, 1929.

LECTURE BY REV. M. L. EVERSZ

"Gustavus Adolphus" Will be the
Subject at Swedish Bethany
Church Sunday Evening

"On account of the lucid style, the excellent arrangement and the most interesting manner in which the lecture was delivered I am able to recall more of the lecture than of most lectures I have heard," said Mr. G. L. Bowman, president of the Waukegan Co. Training School, after listening to Rev. M. L. Eversz of the local M. E. church deliver his lecture on "Gustavus Adolphus."

Rev. Eversz will give this historical address and character study of Gustavus Adolphus, the sixth king of Sweden, at the Swedish Bethany church on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Always Faithful class of the Sunday school. There will be no admission charged but a silver offering will be taken.

"No lack of pep" from start to finish," says the Sun Prairie Countryman, and all are assured there will not be a dull moment during the evening. From advance reports a large audience will greet the speaker. A hearty welcome is extended to all.

SCOUT ANALYSIS OF 1927 OUTLINED

B. Perry Newton, Scout Executive
Submits Yearly Report at
Annual Meet

INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP

490 Scouts at Present Time Under Supervision of Crow Wing
Area Council

The annual report of B. Perry Newton, scout executive, submitted at the annual meeting of the Crow Wing Area Council last evening as follows:

Scouting has enjoyed in the past year greater popularity among the boys than in the previous year. In order to understand this condition and to be able to carry it through on a greater scale this coming year, it has seemed advisable to carefully analyze our general conditions of leadership, enrollment and advancement in the scouting requirements. I do not want to burden anyone with figures; however, in the final analysis these give a definite and concrete picture.

On December 31, 1926, we had fourteen troops with 288 scouts, 13 scoutmasters and 2 assistant scoutmasters. During the past year we have added 6 new troops with 99 new scouts. We also gained by transfer from territory not under council previously 4 troops with a total of 93 scouts. It has been necessary to drop three troops and a total turnover of 155 scouts. This leaves us at the present time with a total enrollment of 23 troops, 454 scouts, 36 lone scouts which are boys residing in the rural territory too far from active troops to get in to their meetings, making a total of 490 scouts under the supervision of this council. We have 19 scoutmasters and 13 assistant scoutmasters.

This represents a gain in membership of 41 percent, 26 percent of which represents the actual gain in the territory in which we operated last year, balance being the territory transferred to this council. These figures further show that we have enlisted the services of 15 new scoutmasters during the past year. This figure set beside the turnover of 155 scouts should cause each one of us this conclusion. If we can by some effective means during this coming year cut down our turnover of both scoutmasters and scouts, we will then very materially increase our effectiveness as well as gain in enrollment. If we were to do nothing during the coming year but make a concerted effort toward this one thing, we would without taking any new boys in make a very material gain in scouts. The result of this would be infinitely greater effectiveness.

The standing of these scouts in the Council is as follows: 55 percent are tenderfoot rank, 25 percent second class and 18 percent first class or above. The upper two ranks or 43 percent of our enrollment has earned in the past year 420 merit badges. This means that a great many scouts have made valuable contacts with successful business men in regard to the different vocations from which they make their livelihood. The scout has unquestionably a better idea in the back of his mind as to what the task of earning livelihood means and as to what he might be best suited for. We now have 12 eagle scouts, 12 new eagles in 1927. Potential leadership for the near future.

During the spring months last year as a result of the action taken at the annual meeting, a training course was conducted to acquaint the men with methods of leading troops. At that time men who specialized in different activities dealing with scouting were invited in and gave us a wealth of material which was greatly appreciated. The different meetings of this training course were held in Brainerd, Crosby, Ironton, Staples and Aitkin. We had an average attendance of 30 or more men. Another course of this type should be planned for this year and possibly on the same general ideas the preceding one. This will help materially to gradually build up a trained corps of leaders which will in turn cut down our turnover of scoutmasters. With a better trained leadership we will also very materially cut down the abnormal scout turnover which we have at present. It will be interesting to note here that many of our assist-

Adult camp supervision was infinitely better provided for this year by having beside the assistant camp director who was a medical student, three junior leaders, one each from Staples, Brainerd and Aitkin. The actual operating cost per scout week was $5.10, the boy paying $2.50 of this, the balance coming out of the budget.

In addition to the activities at our regular camp, those boys who had completed their eagle scout work made a ten day canoe trip under supervision of Arthur Tornstrom, a scoutmaster from Minneapolis, Gerhart Flaata and the executive. There were 14 in the party which left Ely by canoe for a trip similar to that the Pioneers of the North Country had to make when the lakes and rivers were the only highways. An Eagle who was on the first trip would be expected, of course, to pay his entire way, if he should desire to go again. Because of the courtesy of the county commissioners loaning us the use of their army truck, we were able to keep the cost down to a minimum. This was greatly appreciated and they were so informed.

BRAINERD HIGH DEFEATS PINE RIVER 25-17

FULLER, LACOURSE STAND OUT AS BEST ON FLOOR

BRAINERD SINKS THREE BASKETS IN THREE MINUTES AT START OF GAME

PINE RIVER SHOWS SIGNS OF GOOD TEAMWORK; WISE RECEIVES INJURY

The Brainerd high school defeated Pine River by the count of 25 to 17 at the Pine River high school last evening in a game that was listless on both sides.

Brainerd continued its pace in the conference race and now stands with four won and no losses.

The team has three conference games remaining before the district tournament at Aitkin in March. These constitute games with Motley there next Friday night, Wadena at Brainerd, next Saturday night, and Aitkin there on February 17. The clash with Wadena will be the outstanding obstacle of the Brainerd team for the season. In order to maintain their thousand per cent the locals must play smart basketball to down Wadena. This game will be played in Brainerd next Saturday night and will be the last home conference game of the season.

Brainerd started out with a rush last evening and within the first three minutes had a lead of 6 to 0, with baskets by Wise and Guin and free throws by LaCourse. The first quarter ended with the score 6 to 4 in favor of Brainerd.

In the second quarter the play continued more on even terms with Brainerd keeping the slight lead. Fuller added two baskets during this period, Hautala one, and LaCourse adding another. Hautala replaced Wise in the second quarter when Wise was injured in a clash with a Pine River player.

At the beginning of the second half Brainerd started out with a typical second half rush and within a couple minutes the score was 20 to 9. At this point the reserve five were brought into action but failed to maintain the pace with the result that Pine River made their second half rushes count. The Pine River rally was cut short at the start of the fourth quarter by substitution of some of the regulars.

The Pine River team showed signs of good teamwork working the ball around for close in shots. Houston, Pine River guard was high point man for Pine River with three field goals. For Brainerd LaCourse was high man with two baskets and four free throws. Fuller made three field baskets with Guin adding two field goals and Hautala two.

Fuller and LaCourse played the best game for Brainerd, Fuller taking part in the defense as well as making timely baskets on the offense. LaCourse breaking for the basket helped Brainerd considerably by his contribution of four gift shots. Guin played a good defense game by intercepting passes which were meant for his man.

LOPE TENORIO DISAPPOINTS IN FLOWERS FIGHT

DUSKY NEW ROCHELLE FIGHTER HOLDS FILIPINO TO A DRAW

LITTLE BROWN MAN WILLING BOXER, BUT HAD NO PUNCH

New York, Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—Lope Tenorio, the Filipino who came to New York widely-heralded as a promising contender for Sammy Mandell's lightweight title, proved a disappointment last night to 13,419 fans who saw Bruce Flowers, the dusky New Rochelle, N. Y., fighter, hold him to a draw.

Much was expected to Tenorio because of recent victories over Stanislaus Loayza, once a prominent challenge for the 135-crown, and Joe Glick, the tough junior lightweight from Brooklyn.

The little brown man proved a willing fighter, but one absolutely devoid on a punch. He showed nothing in this fight to warrant being considered a likely opponent for the lightweight champion.

Many ringside critics gave Tenorio an edge over Flowers, but the referee and judges called it a draw and no one was interested enough to protest the decision.

It was one of the tamest fights of the winter season.

JOIE RAY IN HIS COMEBACK ANNOUNCEMENT

TRACK IS ONE SPORT NOT YET READY FOR OPEN PROFESSIONALISM

WHEN HE WANTED TO RUN FOR MONEY HE FOUND NO COMPETITORS

By BERT M. DEMBY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Jan. 28.—(U.P.)—Joie Ray's comeback announcement was accepted in athletic circles today as proof that track is one sport not yet ready for open professionalism.

Five years ago, Ray, with a record of 4:12, was considered the greatest miler who ever lived. Then Paavo Nurmi came along and ran the mile in 4:10.4.

Ray tried desperately to better the record but discovered that instead of doing better he was "going back." Finally, not having amassed any money along with his trunkful of medals, he decided to cash in on what he had left.

He turned professional, or rather he announced that he would become a money runner. The result was that he never appeared in a professional race because there was no one to run against.

Ray theorized that he could make a lot of money barnstorming, defeating local celebrities much in the same manner that some champion prize-fighters are knocking over set-ups today.

But there were no professionals for him to defeat, and it seemed that the local celebrities had visions of doing big things for medals instead of money. For Ray never found anyone to run against, because, under the various rulings, an amateur who competes against a professional becomes a professional.

So Joie Ray, the man who had been accustomed to hobnobbing with millionaires, when he was running for the Illinois Athletic Club here, went to work in a steel mill in Gary, Ind.

Now comes Johnny Behr, the I. A. C. trainer, with the word that the hard work in the mills has built up Joie's strength and there is a possibility that he may be as good as ever.

Johnny admits that it's impossible right now to tell whether Ray can comeback. "He has never been far out of condition," Behr said, "and he'll be ready for indoor running in another month."

Ray does have one thing in his favor. He is not yet 30. But at that 30 is a fairly ripe age for a man who has been out of active competition, to comeback and expect to cover a mile in less than 4:14.

Ray believes he can make the Olympic team again. In that connection there is the matter of his again becoming an amateur. However, since he has never competed as a professional, Behr holds that he has never become a professional.

It was believed that Ray merely will have to re-establish his amateur standing and not go through any ordeals of re-instatement.

UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

If Johnny Farrell, the smiling Quaker Ridge and St. Augustine pro, can win one of the major championships of 1928, he will take his place with Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen and Tommy Armour among the "Big Four" of American golf.

Johnny may replace Armour in an even more exclusive "Big Three" group, if Tommy does not succeed in repeating his triumphs of last year.

The position of Jones and Hagen at the top of American golf is secure. Bobby remains without a peer at medal play, and Walter can beat them all at match play.

Since neither Jones nor Hagen wins an inordinate number of championships per year, there is room for another outstanding golfer or two in the limelight.

Already Mac Smith and Gene Sarazen have entered claims for recognition. While Smith was winning in the West, Sarazen was knocking off the winter's most important golf event in the south.

Johnny Farrell, on his record for the past 12 months, however, stands ahead of either the wee Italian or the unlucky Scot. The Quaker Ridge youngster bagged six big tournaments in a row, establishing what is considered a world's record in this respect.

Farrell won the Metropolitan open, the Eastern open, the Shawnee open, as well as the open championships of Chicago, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Wheeling and Philadelphia. The fields were strong, including such opposition as Hagen, Armour, Bobby Cruikshank, Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Bill Mehlhorn and other leading professionals. Johnny also established himself for the third successive year as the best professional medal player.

For 76 complete rounds in important competitions, Farrell averaged 73 7-76 strokes.

At that Johnny wasn't much better than Walter Hagen, whose average was 73 32-40 for 40 rounds. Third place went to "Light Horse" Harry Cooper, who averaged 73 34-46 for 46 rounds.

There would seem to be a pretty good chance for some American pro to win himself a place in the sun this summer by bagging the British open championship.

Bobby Jones has announced that he will not attend. Of course, the Atlanta golfer may change his mind, just as he has in the past. If Bobby goes abroad to defend his title, few American professionals will care to make the trip.

"What's the use, with that fellow there?" most of them ask.

However, should Jones keep to his decision to play golf only in the United States during 1928, there probably will be quite an exodus of leading American professionals next summer.

The opposition in England and Scotland is not strong. This was demonstrated by the collapse of the English Ryder Cup team members at Oakmont. Bagging of the British Open would be a feather in anyone's cap, one well worth making the trip for. Because if Bobby Jones doesn't try for the British crown again, he will be a most dangerous competitor in the American Open.

How the pros do hate to see Bobby set out after one of these open championships!

ACCOUNTS FOR 24 POINTS OUT OF 32 AGAINST MOTLEY

LOCALS COME BACK IN SECOND HALF TO DECISIVE VICTORY, 32 TO 16

ROBERTA CRAWFORD PLAYS A FINE GUARD GAME; HIGH BOYS BEAT Y. M. C. A.

Dorothy Kleven, center forward for the Brainerd high school girls cage team was responsible last evening for her decisive victory over the Motley team by the count of 32 to 16.

Miss Kleven scored 24 of Brainerd's 32 points. Her scoring ability last evening appeared phenomenal. She sank baskets from all angles of her position and the opposing guards were hopelessly unable to check her.

The first half saw both teams fighting on even terms with the half ending 11 to 10 in favor of Brainerd Kleven and Irene Molstad combined in the scoring count for the Brainerd team in the initial half.

At the start of the second half, the locals broke loose and the visitors were unable to check the strong offensive threat brought about by the heavy scoring of Dorothy Kleven. Motley's scoring was checked considerably by the brilliant work of Roberta Crawford who is playing her first year with the Brainerd high.

Storhagen was high point scorer for the Motley quint. She recorded eight out of the sixteen points for the visitors.

The next game will be played with Crosby here next Friday in what should prove to be the outstanding girls cage classic of the season. Miss Elizabeth Reinertsen, Brainerd coach will put her team through several practices before the game with the range team.

In the preliminary game between the second team of the Brainerd high and the Y. M. C. A. Juniors, the high school representatives came through with a victory by the score of 13 to 9.

Paine and Hautala each scored four points for the evening's high score men.

The box score for the girls game follows:

BRAINERD HIGH DEFEATS PINE RIVER 25-17

FULLER, LACOURSE STAND OUT AS BEST ON FLOOR

BRAINERD SINKS THREE BASKETS IN THREE MINUTES AT START OF GAME

PINE RIVER SHOWS SIGNS OF GOOD TEAMWORK; WISE RECEIVES INJURY

The Brainerd high school defeated Pine River by the count of 25 to 17 at the Pine River high school last evening in a game that was listless on both sides.

Brainerd continued its pace in the conference race and now stands with four won and no losses.

The team has three conference games remaining before the district tournament at Aitkin in March. These constitute games with Motley there next Friday night, Wadena at Brainerd, next Saturday night, and Aitkin there on February 17. The clash with Wadena will be the outstanding obstacle of the Brainerd team for the season. In order to maintain their thousand per cent the locals must play smart basketball to down Wadena. This game will be played in Brainerd next Saturday night and will be the last home conference game of the season.

Brainerd started out with a rush last evening and within the first three minutes had a lead of 6 to 0, with baskets by Wise and Guin and free throws by LaCourse. The first quarter ended with the score 6 to 4 in favor of Brainerd.

In the second quarter the play continued more on even terms with Brainerd keeping the slight lead. Fuller added two baskets during this period, Hautala one, and LaCourse adding another. Hautala replaced Wise in the second quarter when Wise was injured in a clash with a Pine River player.

At the beginning of the second half Brainerd started out with a typical second half rush and within a couple minutes the score was 20 to 9. At this point the reserve five were brought into action but failed to maintain the pace with the result that Pine River made their second half rushes count. The Pine River rally was cut short at the start of the fourth quarter by resubstitution of some of the regulars.

The Pine River team showed signs of good teamwork working the ball around for close in shots. Houston, Pine River guard was high point man for Pine River with three field goals. If Johnny Farrell, the smiling Quaker Ridge and St. Augustine pro, can win one of the major championships of 1928, he will take his place with Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen and Tommy Armour among the "Big Four" of American golf.

Johnny may replace Armour in an even more exclusive "Big Three" group, if Tommy does not succeed in repeating his triumphs of last year.

The position of Jones and Hagen at the top of American golf is secure. Bobby remains without a peer at medal play, and Walter can beat them all at match play.

Since neither Jones nor Hagen wins an inordinate number of championships per year, there is room for another outstanding golfer or two in the limelight.

Already Mac Smith and Gene Sarazen have entered claims for recognition. While Smith was winning in the West, Sarazen was knocking off the winter's most important golf event in the south.

Johnny Farrell, on his record for the past 12 months, however, stands ahead of either the wee Italian or the unlucky Scot. The Quaker Ridge youngster bagged six big tournaments in a row, establishing what is considered a world's record in this respect.

Farrell won the Metropolitan open, the Eastern open, the Shawnee open, as well as the open championships of Chicago, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Wheeling and Philadelphia. The fields were strong, including such opposition as Hagen, Armour, Bobby Cruickshank, Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Bill Mehlhorn and other leading professionals. Johnny also established himself for the third successive year as the best professional medal player.

For 76 complete rounds in important competitions, Farrell averaged 73.7-76 strokes.

At that Johnny wasn't much better than Walter Hagen, whose average was 73.32-40 for 40 rounds. Third place went to "Light Horse" Harry Cooper, who averaged 73.34-46 for 46 rounds.

There would seem to be a pretty good chance for some American pro to win himself a place in the sun this summer by bagging the British open championship.

Bobby Jones has announced that he will not attend. Of course, the Atlanta golfer may change his mind, just as he has in the past. If Bobby goes abroad to defend his title, few American professionals will care to make the trip.

"What's the use, with that fellow there?" most of them ask. However, should Jones keep to his decision to play golf only in the United States during 1928, there probably will be quite an exodus of leading American professionals next summer.

The opposition in England and Scotland is not strong. This was demonstrated by the collapse of the English Ryder Cup team members at Oakmont. Bagging of the British Open would be a feather in anyone's cap, one well worth making the trip for. Because if Bobby Jones doesn't try for the British crown again, he will be a most dangerous competitor in the American Open.

How the pros do hate to see Bobby set out after one of these open championships!

ACCOUNTS FOR 24 POINTS OUT OF 32 AGAINST MOTLEY

LOCALS COME BACK IN SECOND HALF TO DECISIVE VICTORY, 32 TO 16

ROBERTA CRAWFORD PLAYS A FINE GUARD GAME; HIGH BOYS BEAT Y. M. C. A.

Dorothy Kleven, center forward for the Brainerd high school girls cage team was responsible last evening for her decisive victory over the Motley team by the count of 32 to 16.

Miss Kleven scored 24 of Brainerd's 32 points. Her scoring ability last evening appeared phenomenal. She sank baskets from all angles of her position and the opposing guards were hopelessly unable to check her.

The first half saw both teams fighting on even terms with the half ending 11 to 10 in favor of Brainerd. Kleven and Irene Molstad combined in the scoring count for the Brainerd team in the initial half.

At the start of the second half, the locals broke loose and the visitors were unable to check the strong offensive threat brought about by the heavy scoring of Dorothy Kleven. Motley's scoring was checked considerably by the brilliant work of Roberta Crawford who is playing her first year with the Brainerd high.

Storhagen was high point scorer for the Motley quint. She recorded eight out of the sixteen points for the visitors.

The next game will be played with Crosby here next Friday in what should prove to be the outstanding girls cage classic of the season. Miss Elizabeth Reinertsen, Brainerd coach will put her team through several practices before the game with the range team.

In the preliminary game between the second team of the Brainerd high and the Y. M. C. A. Juniors, the high school representatives came through with a victory by the score of 13 to 9.

Paine and Hautala each scored four points for the evening's high score men.

The box score for the girls game follows:
